

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A visual terminal apparatus for providing a visual telephone service includes a camera unit for photographing a user image; an image processing unit connected to the camera unit for extracting only the user's face from the user image outputted from the camera unit and synthesizing the extracted user's face with a pseudo background; and a display unit for displaying the image outputted from the image processing unit.